

Strategic Partnerships

To date, Fuleex has key institutional investors and has forged strategic partnerships with established companies to provide sustainable growth and alliances for the development of its products and services.

List of investors and strategic partners :

ACN GROUP SINGAPORE

ACN is an aviation group that acquires and integrates growth companies within the airlines industry in China. Holdings include ACN International Corporation, Airlines BPO, ACN Centre for Skill Training & Workforce Development, the ACN School of Service Excellence for Cabin Crew & Frontline, and ACN Publications.

MILLENNING

MILLENNING is a company dedicated to provide a revolutionary payment solution to the corporate and individual users through its established frictionless conduit to effect cross-border payments at high speed and at low cost. Along with its DLT technology, the company redefines Remittance by offering smart, secure, instant, trusted transactions with good FX rates from its liquidity partners. (licensed and regulated by the Monetary Authority of Singapore)

APEX WANG'S CORPORATION

Managed by a holding company founded in Taiwan, Apex Wang began from a humble beginning as a professional production house producing auto part for the world's automobil companies. Offering customers beyond high quality and cost-effective products, Apex Wang eventually rose to the World's agents and distributors list for automobil parts. To date, the company is also producing for one of Japan's largest auto parts companies - Kashimura OEM factory.

With the establishment of Apex Wang Corporation, the 'management' arm of Apex Wang, it has steered the company to other production capabilities and at last count the factory has produced more than 500 different products over the past 20 years in operation. Most of the products are for car interiors and mobile phone accessories. It exports more than 300,000 pieces of goods to Japan every month.

In its foray of investments, Apex Wang Corporation also established a new manufacturing plant in Zhuhai, China in early 2006, where they improved its capabilities in injection molding, assembly and laser engraving.

The company continues to actively seek out viable investment opportunities that align with their principle of sophisticated IT solutions coupled with high quality delivery standards to customers. This strategic partnership affirms their belief in Fuleex and its Fuleex token for the future of their business transactions and they are confident of its eventual acceptance globally.

